THE BENEDICTINE NUNS

KYLEMORE ABBEY®

A New Beginning for an Ancient Order

Since 1920 a monastic community of Benedictine Nuns have prayed and worked at Kylemore Abbey, living according to the Rule of St. Benedict.

They have preserved the beauty and heritage of Kylemore, educated generations of young women, welcomed visitors and created employment. Now, after 100 years at Kylemore they embark on the most important and ambitious project in their 400-year history:

- a new monastery and purpose-built home for their growing community of Benedictine nuns
- residential accommodation for pilgrims and visitors to share the sacred space of their lives through short courses and retreats.

History of the Benedictine Nuns

The Benedictine nuns of Kylemore Abbey have a long history, beginning at Brussels in 1598. In the late 1500s, following religious suppression, many Catholics left England and opened monastic houses in Europe. A number of monasteries originated from one Benedictine house in Brussels, founded by Lady Mary Percy in 1598. This included one at Ypres in Belgium in 1665.

Through the centuries, Ypres Abbey attracted the daughters of Irish nobility, as students and postulants. The Abbey enjoyed the patronage of influential Irish families living in exile and was formally made over to the Irish nation in 1682. Known as The Irish Dames of Ypres, the Benedictine nuns moved to Dublin in 1688 at the request of King James II but returned to Ypres following James's defeat at the Battle of the Boyne in 1690.

After more than two centuries in Ypres, their Abbey was destroyed during World War 1, and the nuns fled as refugees first to England, later to Wexford before eventually settling in Kylemore in December 1920. At Kylemore, the nuns established an international boarding school and day school for girls. They ran a farm and guesthouse; restored the ruined Victorian Walled Gardens and the Neo-Gothic Church, and established craft and tourism enterprises. In 2010, the School closed and since then the Benedictine nuns have developed new education and retreat activities, while welcoming thousands of visitors to their shared home.

Today, Kylemore Abbey is one of Ireland's most iconic heritage sites, known for its natural beauty, rich heritage and spiritual tranquillity.

New Monastery

With the closure of the School and reconfiguration of the castle building in 2019, Kylemore's community of nuns now live, work and pray in several temporary locations across the estate – with no communal monastic home.

Now the nuns will create a new permanent monastery suitable for their mission of inviting others into their lives of prayer and work.

The new monastery places the Benedictine ethos at the heart of the estate, enabling visitors and pilgrims to see and experience the living tradition of faith and spirituality at Kylemore. In the spirit of Benedictine hospitality, it will welcome those seeking a place of reflection, solace and tranquillity, and offer spiritual retreats and courses.

The new monastery will be connected to the Monastic Church with gardens and cloister and will comprise:

- Spaces for prayer and meditation for nuns and visitors
- Chapter room – a meeting space for the Benedictine community
- Living accommodation for the growing Benedictine community
- Dedicated Novitiate space
- Library and archive accommodation
- Residential retreat centre
- Welcome area for guests and groups.

The new monastery will:
WELCOME pilgrims and visitors, offering a place of reflection and renewal
NURTURE new vocations, encouraging those with a calling to monastic life
BE HOME to the nuns whose lives of faith and spirituality inspire Kylemore visitors.

What is a Monastery?

A monastery is the home of a community of women or men committed to living a life of witness to the presence and action of God in the world. It is a place of contemplation and prayer, of work and community living, and of hospitality. In Europe, from the 4th century to the present day, monasteries have been centres of spirituality, education, sustainability, culture, and art. Times of growth, influence and prosperity are often succeeded by decades of renewal and revival.

Today, in our increasingly complex world, the need for monasteries as places of tranquillity and reflection has never been greater. Kylemore provides a beautiful setting for monastic life. With its strong tradition of education and hospitality in a majestic natural environment, the Benedictine nuns invite all to share in their spiritual life.

Divine Office

The daily life of the nuns mirrors the form of life laid down by St Benedict in his Rule, written in the 6th century. A timetable in which prayer, work and rest succeed each other in a regular way gives a healthy and peaceful structure to the day. The Horarium, or daily programme, allows time for the sacred scriptures and for personal and community prayer.

- 07:15 Morning Prayer (Vigils and Lauds)
- 12.15 Mass / Midday Prayer
- 18.00 Evening Prayer (Vespers)
- 20.00 Night Prayer (Compline)

With your help?

The Benedictine nuns of Kylemore have embarked on the most important project in their long history: the construction of a new, purpose-built Monastery. This will provide a home for their growing monastic community and a residential Retreat and Spiritual Education Centre for visitors to share the sacred space of their lives through short courses and retreats.

Monastery construction started in September 2019 and was due for completion in December 2020 in time for the centenary of the Benedictine nuns at Kylemore. Covid-19 and global uncertainty has delayed the project, but Kylemore remains committed to delivery of this historic project: the first monastery in Ireland built for a community of Benedictine women in over 400 years.

Your support can make a real difference and all gifts, regardless of amount, are a vital help to the Benedictine nuns.
